Cliff and I leave tomorrow morning for three weeks in Mexico. Marjory Lloyd will edit the Pine Cone; Virginia Shaw will take over the social desk. Adele Detroit who enjoys a roving retirement in a luxury trailer with husband Lance will take some of the pressure off the shop by operating one of the Intertypes. The trailer has been in storage for the past three months while Adele and Lance have roamed the Orient and the Pacific Islands.

We would not choose this time for a vacation, when the city council may stampede itself into adopting a new zoning ordinance which in its present form will remove protection enjoyed by Carmel for 20 years. We have pointed out again and again the weakness and dangers of this ordinance. We have emphasized the need for the council to extend the interim zoning ordinance to allow themselves time to strengthen the proposed ordinance and remove the threats to the beauty and quiet of the town and to the property values. There is nothing more for us to do.

And we have to catch Adele when we can.

We shall vote by absentee ballot, and here are the Pine Cone recommendations:

Nixon for president. Kennedy's comments during the campaign have "shocked our tender nerves."

We may use a Galsworthyism. His remarks on current foreign affairs give us the impression that he would be likely to go off half-cocked in a crisis. As for domestic matters... who of us can afford another round of inflation?

We should like to see Charles Teague back in Congress. His voting record is excellent and he's a stout conservationist. When we asked him why he hadn't got the Wilderness Bill out of committee, he said he was up against "Gracie." (We forgot her last name.) She's the representative from Idaho where the cattlemen, sheepmen and lumbermen are not content to exploit and destroy the National Forests but want a foot in the dedicated wilderness areas as well. Gracie is in a powerful position. (Continued on Page Eighteen)

Gunman Flees After Highlands Resident Says, "No Waller"

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ernest Pratt, who live in the garden cottage adjacent to the residence of Mrs. D. L. James in Carmel Highlands, discovered a car parked beside their car on Highway 1. Approaching their own car, they saw a door was ajar and a man going through the contents of their glove compartment.

Mr. Pratt closed the door of his car and asked the man what he was doing. The man replied he was trying to find where someone lived and was looking for the name of the owner of Pratt's car. (Continued on Page Four)

Experimentalism in a variety of crafts ranging from ceramic and enameled products of the kiln to photography claims most of the time of Carmelite Doris Birkland.

But not all. She maintains such a casual atmosphere of conversation and sociability in her shop on Cannery Row that customers hardly seem like shop patrons at all. They are more like old friends who have chanced in to chat of paduak wood and celadon glazes.

An American who has aimed a sympathetic lens at many of the heartening as well as the heart-breaking glimpses of post-war Europe, Doris, one-time press photographer for Berlin's Der Tagespiegel, has assembled some of her work done in Europe and North Africa for a show this month in the Community Room of the Monterey Public Library.

Other Birkland photo exhibits in recent years have been in the Amerika Haus of Berlin, the Lucien Labaudt Gallery of San Francisco, and Idaho's state capitol rotunda.

Indefatigable as long as there remains an experiment yet to be made in the crafts field, Doris speaks avidly of her own work and of that of fellow-craftsmen, who use her showroom as a salon for their own work.

"I work for textures rather than colors or linear design," she says, explaining why much of her pottery, wood and weaving is completed in natural color and surface. "I experiment mostly with glazes in pottery and with fiber in weaving. Fiberglass is, I believe, one of the most versatile media for textural contrast.

"For glaze I've used wood ash—aspens, ash, orange. The orange has especially surprised me because it simulates its own color and this is unusual. But sometimes I forget glazes altogether and try to preserve the color and textural quality of the unfired clay, using slip for decoration. It gives that earthen integrity."

She showed her present work with stoneware reduction glazes that suggest even more powerfully the earthen origin of her pots than does the fired clay itself. A beautiful and unusual set of pottery was also made with a salt glaze, formed when Doris (Continued on Page Eighteen)

Art On The Peninsula

Art week starts on Tuesday and continues through November 7. Local artists will again display paintings in stores and public buildings. The Carmel Art Association, a co-operative non-profit artists' organization, will reopen its galleries which have been closed for the past few months during alterations and enlargement.

According to George Seideneck, chairman of the building committee, additions to the galleries will cost $35,000 and consist of two large galleries, in addition to the former oil gallery, a small gallery for sketches, a library room and new service quarters.

Only the original large gallery will be opened on Tuesday. Association members are asked to bring paintings to the gallery on Monday. They will be hung that evening.

Between 60 and 70 paintings will be included in the exhibit, both oils and water colors. They will be hung on the walls and placed on the floor to ensure a representative show for Art Week, Mr. Seideneck adds. The formal opening of the gallery will be in a couple of months when all alterations are completed.

Rip Matteson is president of the Art Association this year. John Halloran continues as curator, assisted by Mrs. Gustav Erbe.

Last year the Carmel Art Association did business amounting to $900,000. This was largely due to a time payment plan for paintings sold, Mr. Seideneck remarks. Even while closed, gallery income of about $6,000 has continued to come in under this arrangement each month.

Public interest in art during the past year has boomed on the Peninsula. Besides the Art Association galleries there are now 14 private galleries in Carmel, one each in Pebble Beach, Carmel Valley and Carmel Highlands, three in Monterey.

Shows are changed in most galleries each month, with invitation previews before public openings. There are numerous one-man shows. Artists from all over the United States display their work here, in addition to foreign artists and those residing in this area.

Carmel's First Co-op Apartment Permit Granted

Planning commissioners yesterday afternoon granted a building permit to Havasco of Carmel Inc. for an eight-apartment building, one of four units planned for Pine Terrace, Carmel's first cooperative apartment development, designed by George Willox.

According to August Nieto, Havasco Inc. salesman, 12 of the planned 19 apartments have already been sold at a price totalling

Winter came to Carmel yesterday and kelp removal operations started. All day big waves rolled over the beach to the cliffs and across the Carmel River bar into the lagoon, trailing windblown spray.

They uprooted masses of kelp and deposited it along the beach to be destroyed by small seashore creatures, sun and wind. Nature is accomplishing what persons have urged the Pine Cone, in letters, to ask humans to undertake in past weeks.

A light rain, in the early morning hours, washed dust away and left pine needles sparkling in the sunshine.

The city council will meet tomorrow night, 8:00 o'clock, city hall, to continue work on the new zoning ordinance for the business district.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg urges citizens to attend to back him in his effort to get an extension on the interim zoning ordinance.

Carmel Volunteer Fire Department answered a general alarm on Sunday morning, 10:08 o'clock, at the Cheerful Tortoise Motel. When the three trucks arrived on the scene firemen found smoke and a flame caused by hot ivy on a chimney. They used a garden hose to control the situation and were back at the fire house in 22 minutes. Only damage was to the ivy.

Carmel Hill interchange will be landscaped with 13,460 native shrubs and 1,350 trees, mostly Monterey pines, at a budgeted cost of $225,000, the State Highway Commission announced Tuesday. There will be a pedestrian and cyclist path beside the highway between Carmel and Monterey. H. Dana Bowers, state landscape architect, is preparing plans after working closely with a group of Peninsula residents, headed by Will Shaw, Carmel architect. Bids will be called soon. Work is expected to start next month.

Returns from last Saturday's P-TA-Girls' League Scholarship Carnival at the Carmel High School amount to over $3,000, according to Miss Dorothy Wright, vice principal. All Girls' League bills are not paid, and the P-TA returns have not been officially tabulated, as yet.

The funds will be divided into several college scholarships, awarded in June to outstanding graduates.

$375,000. Purchasers are semi-retired local persons, retired professors from Modesto, and retired executives from San Francisco Bay area and various parts of the world. Total retail value of the 19 apartments will amount to $660,000.

Havasco of Carmel Inc., a business association of J. O. Handley, Anthony Vasconcellos and Robert M. Connell, is constructing the luxury apartments at the southwest corner of Mission and Third Streets, in the proposed C-1-S zone, where gas stations, bus depots, plumbing shops and exterminator shops are some of the conditional and permitted uses in the proposed new zoning ordinance for the business district, prepared by the planning commission, now being considered by the city council. At present the property is zoned C-1 (commercial).

Pine Terrace apartments retail from $26,500-$48,000. They will be constructed around terraced gardens. Each apartment will have a seven-foot wide balcony across the front facing west and overlooking the ocean, Point Lobos and the Santa Lucia mountains. Maid service will be available to the occupants of the one and two-bedroom apartments. All parking (100 per cent) will be off-street with ample provision also for visitor parking. One unit will contain an elevator and each unit will have laundry facilities.

Before granting the building permit for the first unit, commissioners indicated they approved the building although it presented three stories to a street frontage. This condition was acceptable as the lower story would be for parking and the street would probably never be opened for traffic use.

They also asked for appropriate (Continued on Page Eighteen)

All Carmel Children Invited By Kiwanis To Hallowe'en Party

Spooks, sprites, space men and a host of other costumed sprouts will cavort after sundown on the boys' playfield at Sunset School during the annual Kiwanis Hallowe'en party on Monday evening.

The best in each age class will receive prizes and a $25 Savings bond will be given for the costume judged best of all. Every child in costume will receive a gift, the best ever procured, according to Eugene Harrah, chairman for the event. Free cider and doughnuts will be distributed, also hundreds of balloons.

Thomas Elston is in charge of setting up the reviewing platform over which children will parade in single file for the benefit of (Continued on Page Four)

CARMEL GRIDDERS DIVIDE PAIR AT GONZALES

In a pair of tense fiercely-contested games at the windblown Gonzales High stadium last Friday night, the Carmel High gridders managed a win and a loss for their night's efforts. The Padre junior-varsity, after leading for most of the contest, gave up a pair of touchdowns in the second half to drop a 14-7 decision to the swift Spartan Babes. Carmel's varsity picked up a quick touchdown early in the first quarter and then sat on the six points to eke out a 6-0 win over the hard-fighting Spartan varsity. The win over Gonzales gives the Padre varsity a 3-0 league record for the current season while the jayvee loss gives Coach Fred Rainer's charges a 1-2 record in league play.

A nicely executed pass from quarterback Frank Bucher to half-back Mike Draper got the Padre varsity the winning touchdown in the first quarter, but the Red & Gray 30-game win skein was in jeopardy throughout the entire contest. The outweighed Spartans put on the finest display of team defense to confront the Padres during the past four seasons. With good line speed and determined pursuit, the Spartans shut off the Carmel outside attack and forced the Padres to take the airplanes for any substantial gains.

Gonzales moved to the Padre seven yard line late in the third period when a Spartan lineman slipped through to block one of Doyle Clayton's punts. However, the sturdy Carmel defense went to work in earnest at this point and pushed the threatening Spartans back to the 16 yard line before taking over the ball on downs. This was the only serious scoring challenge offered by the Spartans who were held outside the Padre 30 yard line for most of the contest.

Excellent defensive line play by John Wilkin, Greg Hulsey, Frank Preve, Paul Jones, Mike Quarrie, and Doyle Clayton stymied the Spartan ground game while the crisp tackling and fine pass defense of George Pollock and Lee Oleson served to control the Gonzales air attack. Scott Forbes did an outstanding job as a pass receiver while the accurate passing of Frank Bucher kept the Padre offense alive.

Dan Holman, slender jayvee quarterback, sparked the Little Padres to a touchdown early in the second period as he passed them to the Gonzales one yard line where Bob Larsen knifed through for the score. A Holman to Pat Olmsted pass was good for the extra-point and the Little Padres had a 7-0 lead when the teams

The Spartan Babes came roaring back with a clever screen pass attack to knot the count in the third period and got the winning touchdown late in the final period with the same screen pass doing the big damage. The Little Padres put up a good fight against the swifter Gonzales lads and had several scoring opportunities before dropping the decision to Coach Buddy Guitierrez's boys. Fine running by Rick Baldwin and Dan Silverie plus the clever passing of Dan Holman and Bob Larsen sparked the Carmel attack while the spirited defensive play of Marlin Fluegge, Ken Friddle, Gary Mumford, and Bob Albee was responsible for stopping several Spartan touchdown drives.

PADRES HOST SAN LORENZO VALLEY THIS SATURDAY

Carmel High's string of 30 games without a defeat is figured to come to an end this Saturday afternoon at Bardarson Field when the undefeated San Lorenzo Valley Cougars come to town for a league tussle with the Red & Gray gridders. Grid experts in the CCAL area tab the Cougars as two-touchdown favorites over the Padres, basing their predictions on the terrific passing of quarterback Steve Rodriguez and the powerful running of halfback Ken Wright. Wright is the leading ground-gainer in the CCAL B-division this season and is versatile enough to operate from either halfback, fullback, or end. Rodriguez is the league's top passer with over 60 percent completions on all his tries. In end Harold Bounds, the Cougars boast one of the finest receivers in Northern California and he is ably supported by wingman Norm Lippard at the other end.

While the Cougars are blessed with several individual stars, the Padres will rely on their usual team effort to turn back the challenge of the spirited preps from Felton. The Red & Gray squad expects to get solid running from halfbacks Mike Draper and Bill Coleman with George Pollock supplying the power up the middle. Both Frank Mayo and Frank Bucher are capable passers and ends Doyle Clayton and Scott Forbes are talented receivers. Carmel's interior line has been tough to crack all season with outstanding efforts being turned in by Chris and John Wilkin, Greg Hulsey, Frank Preve, Gary Sciutto, Bob Blair, and Paul Rice. The Padre defensive secondary of Danny Moore, George Pollock, Mike Draper, and Lee Oleson will have to be at its best to stop

clipped Gilroy, King City, and Gonzales and earned a deadlock with Merced's El Capitan High. The Cougars whipped King City, 27 to 7, and topped Gonzales, 20 to 7, while Carmel got over King City, 21 to 13, and Gonzales, 6 to 0.

Carmel's junior-varsity is expected to get back on the win trail at the expense of the Cougar Babes in Saturday's preliminary tilt which gets underway at 12:00 o'clock. The San Lorenzo junior-varsity was given rough treatment by both the King City and Gonzales jayvees and figures to be too inexperienced for Coach Rainer's gang. Opening the action for Carmel's jayvees will be ends Pat Olmsted and Dave Harris; tackles Bart Whalen and Ken Friddle; guards Bob Albee and Terry Butler; center Terry Tweedie; halfbacks Terry Bishop and Rick Baldwin; quarterback Dan Holman and Bob Larsen; and fullback Dan Silverie.

CLEAT MARKS

Coach George Porter's high-flying Monterey Peninsula College gridders got over another hurdle on their way to the 1960 Coast JC Conference crown last Saturday night when they powered past the strong Diablo Valley College, 24 to 6, at the MPC Stadium. The Lobos are an explosive offensive team this season with plenty of talented backs to make Coach Porter's winged-T attack hum. With such swifties as Dennis Jackson, Dick Austin, and Loyce Singleton carrying the mail, the Lobos are averaging better than 30 points per game. This Friday night MPC travels to Vallejo for a league tilt with the Apaches. Vallejo clipped Bill Abbey's Foothill eleven last weekend appears strong enough to give Porter's gang a serious challenge. . . . Parker Pollock, ex-Padre griddier, is taking up in college where he left off in high school. As a member of the 1957-58 Carmel High teams, Parker enjoyed two undefeated seasons and was an all-league performer. Now in his second year at Humboldt State, Pollock is the starting offensive center and is enjoying a 15-game win streak with Coach Phil Sarboe's Lumberjacks. This weekend, the Lumberjacks travel to Hawaii for a non-league joust with the University of Hawaii. . . . Peninsula grid fans will have an opportunity to see one of the best prep passers in Northern California in action at Carmel High's Bardarson Field this Saturday afternoon when Steve Rodriguez leads the San Lorenzo Valley Cougars against the Carmel Padres. Not only is Steve rated one of the best in the area, but his understudy, Sam Robustelli, is nearly as adept at propelling the pigskin into the hands of willing receivers. At times both Sam and Steve operate in the same Cougar backfield and the ball really hops around when these two start playing catch with their teammates. . . . Watsonville High, the pick of CCAL sports-writers to win the A-division grid crown, was rudely upset by North Salinas High last Friday night. This was a big win for North Salinas as the Vikings were winless in 14 straight games before upsetting the Wildcats. Dan Albert's Monterey High eleven takes on North Salinas this Friday night at the Salinas High Stadium with the winner earning the top spot in the A-division standings. . . . For declining to send their varsity football squad to the CCAL Football Jamboree, Gilroy High has drawn a stiff fine and a two-year probation in B-division athletic contests. This means the Mustang teams will not be considered for league championships and their teams will not be allowed to enter post-season playoffs or tournaments. This is a tough blow for the kids at Gilroy High who have to suffer because of the lack of responsibility on the part of adults who are supposed to be leading them. In the same vein, the fine San Lorenzo Valley High football team was forced to forfeit games to Hollister and Gilroy because the Cougar administrators hastily cancelled this season's games with the Mustangs and Haybalers. More concern for the welfare of participating students would make the CCAE Board of Managers a more effective governing agency.

Colonel Wilder Wins Air Force Medal For Outstanding Service

Colonel Harlan C. Wilder, a Military Air Transport Service staff officer and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cree Wilder of Carmel, has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal for "foresight, initiative and aggressive supervision" displayed in outstanding work in his field.

Colonel Wilder is stationed at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois as chief of the Chief Pilot Division under Operations, a staff agency at MATS headquarters.

The qualities for which he was honored were "materially responsible for the successful operation of a joint service exercise of vital national and international significance," according to the citation which also states, "Additionally, his personal contributions of improved operational procedures and techniques greatly contributed to increased efficiency of the Military Air Transport Service."

A veteran of nearly 20 years, Colonel Wilder spent four and a half years overseas in both the Pacific and European theaters. His prior operational assignment before going to MATS headquarters in 1958 was as commander of the 1501st Air Transport Group at Travis Air Force Base, California.

He is a graduate of Monterey Union High School and San Jose State College and spent his youth in Carmel. He also holds a master's degree in business administration from the University of Southern California.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Wilder received a letter from Colonel Wilder telling of his flight to the Congo during recent hostilities. He was in command of a group flying in United Nations' troops.

The man pulled a gun, ordered Pratt to lie on the floor of the car, asked where Mrs. Pratt had gone and demanded Mr. Pratt's wallet.

Mr. Pratt replied his wife had gone to the James house to call police and that he had no wallet on him. The man fled in his own car.

According to the Sheriff's report, the car in which the man escaped was possibly a blue-green 1953 Buick two-door sedan.

The program starts at 8:00 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained at the Camera Crafts Shop or Carmel Adult School, Box 600, Carmel.

Sunset School eighth graders will sell hot coffee as a class fund raising activity. The Carmel community children's party was originally started by a group of Dolores Street merchants. The Kiwanis club carries on the event as a public service project, according to Kiwanis president, Commander John Chitwood (USN Ret.).

Each year Kiwanis members set up the stage and prepare the grounds after school closes on Hallowe'en. Following the party they clean up the grounds and have the playfield in prime condition for school use next day. Hundreds of children take part in the celebration and costumes, mostly original creations, cover a vast variety of imaginative ideas.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes in the following age groups: zero to three years old; four through six years; seven through nine years; eight years and over, (no age limit). Mayor Frank Putnam, Speirs Ruskell, elementary PTA president, and Paul McKinstry, one of the originators of the first Hallowe'en community children's party, will be the judges.

The party officially starts at 7:00 o'clock.

Don Criley Heads Computer Systems For New Facility

Laboratory for Electronics, Inc. has established a West Coast facility on the Peninsula, named the Monterey Laboratory. Its prime responsibility will be operations analysis and computer programming for all LFE systems' work, according to J. Vance Holdam Jr., LFE vice president.

The staff will consist of a nine-man operations analysis group that has been working together in the recently closed Technical Operations Inc. Mr. Holdam states that it was to LFE's benefit to implement a local program with the availability of such "a top-flight scientific group." Donald Criley of Carmel will be manager of the new LFE's computer systems group.

Future growth is planned to include 50 mathematicians, programmers, physicists and electronic and electro-mechanical engineers during the next two years.

Mr. Criley is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Criley of Carmel Highlands, the son of Theodore Criley, Jr., and the nephew of Mrs. Russell Williams. He came from Los Angeles to live in Carmel a year ago with his wife, Lydia, and three children, Teddy, Donnie and Megan. They are at present building a home in Carmel Meadows.

Australian Comedy Opening Tomorrow At Circle Theatre

Friday evening, the highly unusual comedy-drama, Summer of the Seventeenth Doll, will open at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. It is the first Australian play to win such notable acclaim that it was produced in both London and New York with the original cast. Among the cast was the author, Ray Lawler, experiencing international success after a long career of both acting and playwriting in the Australian theatre.

The situation around which the play is built is distinctively Australian. It concerns two sugar-cane cutters from the northern, tropical part of the country who spend their five-month summer lay-off, from December to April, in the cooler south, near Melbourne. The customs and mores of the cane-cutting gangs play a large part in the development of the action, which begins at the point when the two men find they can no longer keep pace with their strenuous life, nor hold the women with whom they have spent the past 17 summers.

Lawler's humorously raffish and sharply-drawn characters will be portrayed by a cast which includes Russ Eddy, star of A View from the Bridge, Ondine, and Waiting for Godot, and Don Ross, veteran of many Circle plays, but best remembered, perhaps, as Disraeli at California's First Theatre. Joyce Hahn, who recently appeared in The Lady's not for Burning, and Edith Karas, wife of The Happiest Millionaire, have the leading feminine roles. Supporting them will be Kathy Brown, a talented Monterey student who appeared in Hobson's Choice, and Doris Shirek, who last played the mother of Ondine at the Forest Theatre. Newcomer Richard Hommel of the Army Language School completes the cast.

Summer of the Seventeenth Doll is directed by Frederick Rider, and features an atmospheric setting by Ruth Allan and R. Rolleston West. It is scheduled to play Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays through December 4, at 8:30 o'clock.

Michael Sparrow

Michael Sparrow, 44, former Carmel resident, died on October 20 in the Palo Alto Stanford Medical Center after a short illness. He and his wife, Jacqueline, were partners in Sparrows Resort at Strawberry.

They maintained a home here until June of 1959 when their daughter, Susan, graduated from Carmel High School. She is now a student at the University of California in Santa Barbara.

Mr. Sparrow was born in Cleveland, Ohio. He graduated from Stanford University with the Class of 1940.

He was a member of Tuolumne Lodge, No. 8, F.&A.M., Scottish Rite Lodge of Stockton and Shrine Aahmes Temple of Oakland.

Survivors, in addition to his wife and daughter, are a son, Michael; a sister, Mrs. Naomi Simon of Palo Alto; two brothers, Lee Sparrow of Sunnyvale and Ray Sparrow of Belvedere; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Sparrow of Menlo Park; and two grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held on Monday in the Stanford University Memorial Chapel. The Reverend J. Henry Thomas of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, San Mateo, officiated. Burial was in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Sparrow may do so in the form of donations to the Stanford University Medical Research Center, preferably for cancer research.

Teenagers To Collect For UNICEF Program In Carmel Saturday

Saturday evening members of the High School Fellowship of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, wearing orange and black tags and carrying milk cartons, will knock on the doors of Carmel residents and chant, "Trick or treat for UNICEF."

They will be among over two million young people in the United States requesting donations for the international organization which provides aid to children in underprivileged areas of the world.

UNICEF is not a give-away organization. Governments that receive aid match this assistance with at least two and a half times the UNICEF amount they get.

The young people will meet at the church at 6:00 o'clock, make their collections, then return to the church for a penny counting party, according to Lee Puryear, fellowship president. Joan Creighton, secretary, reports that residents away from home on Saturday night may contribute by telephoning Sally Campbell, MA 4-6953. Contributions will be picked up.

Rabbi Barnston Opens Jewish Congregation Sabbath Eve Services

Jewish residents of the Monterey Peninsula who have met together on a number of occasions recently made the decision to form a reform congregation, it was announced by Ernest Batt, president of the new congregation.

The first Sabbath Eve Services of the new congregation will be held tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in The House of Four Winds, Calle Principal. Rabbi Alfred Barnston, of San Francisco, will conduct the services and preach the sermon. A reception and Sabbath social hour will follow the services.

Rabbi Barnston, a native of Houston, Texas, received his B.A. at Rice Institute (Houston), and later obtained his Rabbinical training at the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Rabbi Barnston has held pulpits in Louisville, Kentucky (Reform Temple), Union Temple of Brooklyn, New York (Reform Temple), from 1947-50, and served as Chaplain in the U.S. Navy and with the Marines from 1944-1947.

At present he is assisting the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in the West with Rabbi Glaser, the latter being the present advisor to the new Monterey Peninsula Congregation. Rabbi Barnston is a member of Rotary Club, Central Conference of American Rabbis, Board of Rabbis of Northern California, and the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco.

Plans are being made for the reorganization of the religious and Sunday schools. The women of the congregation are scheduled to meet shortly to be organized into a Sisterhood group. The officers of the new congregation are Ernest Batt, president; Robert Sherry, vice-president, Paul Lipman, treasurer, Benjamin Schwartz, corresponding secretary, and Myron Lando, recording secretary.

The congregation is being assisted in its plans by Rabbi Joseph Glaser, Director of Union of America Hebrew Congregations, Northern California and Northwest regions.

The public is invited to attend the services on Friday evenings.

Here's What You Must Do Now to Win California for Kennedy!

The Outcome of the Election May Well Depend on California's 32 Electoral Votes. Your Help is Needed Right Now to Win California for Kennedy-Johnson.

Never Before has California played such a crucial role in deciding who our next President will be.

The Republicans are supplying their campaign with all the funds needed to buy radio and television time—as well as newspaper space from now till Election day.

You can help Jack Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson fight back by mailing right now $25, or $10, or $5, with the coupon below. Your $25 will pay for:

- 1/3 of a large billboard, or
- 5 inches of newspaper space in a city with over 600,000 residents or
- One minute of radio time in a key area, or
- Four seconds of television time in a city of over 145,000!

You may already know of John F. Kennedy's all out efforts to increase social security benefits, medical care for the aged, and full civil rights for all. In his words, "We stand today on the edge of a New Frontier. We must recapture the spirit of Franklin D. Roosevelt and start moving forward on the unfinished business facing the country."

To carry this message widely, we need YOUR help.

California is one of the big political prizes. The weapons in our fight are television, radio, newspaper ads, and billboards.

Time is growing short. Please put your belief in John F. Kennedy to work by mailing your contribution today.

terey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts has become active. Last spring they brought to the Peninsula the first comprehensive show of famous contemporary American artists. The exhibit was held in the new art gallery at Monterey Peninsula College and attracted widespread interest.

The organization has also sponsored seminars, conducted by recognized leaders in art fields. This month an illustrated lecture on Italian painting was presented by the AFA in Sunset Auditorium. Early in 1961 the AFA will offer similar programs: Five Centuries of French Painting, Modern Painting in France and Masters of Dutch and Flemish Painting. These lectures are free to the public.

This week, starting Wednesday, the AFA will sponsor an Art Week show of fine paintings, etchings, drawings and sculpture belonging to Peninsula residents and loaned for the exhibition at Monterey Peninsula College.

The AFA chapter also plans to revive the Beaux Arts Ball on February 1 at Del Monte Lodge. Previously this was a yearly artist-sponsored event on the Peninsula, once under the direction of Salvador Dali, at that time a local resident. Mrs. John Montague is chairman of the AFA chapter, Mrs. H. A. Fredericks, vice chairman.

The Arts and Humanities Council of the Monterey Peninsula has added to the revival of interest in art in this region by sponsoring various events. The Carmel Art Commission spent much time planning an Art Festival for Carmel. This project was abandoned for this fall because the Forest Theater, planned as a nucleus for the event, was in a state of disrepair.

The Carmel Adult School and Monterey Peninsula College offer free evening art classes in several fields to Carmel residents. The college has also an admirable art department as part of its regular curriculum.

All this activity and interest in art on the Peninsula has reestablished Carmel as one of the leading art centers of the United States.

Anne Blinks is exhibiting scarves, pillow and belt material in the Contemporary Handweavers of California—1960 exhibition that opened in the De Young Museum in San Francisco on Tuesday. The show includes handwoven materials in actual use in 13 interiors, each designed by a different decorator or architect, and a juried show of materials. Anne Blinks' work appears in the last classification.

work appears in the last classification.

Mrs. Blinks became interested in weaving in 1949 during a year in Stockholm where her husband, Dr. Laurence Blinks, director of the Hopkins Marine Station, was working. She studied at the Stockholm City and County School of Handicrafts. Later she became interested in ancient textiles and studied these fabrics for a year each at the Textile Museum in Washington, D.C., and the Ethnology Museum, Cambridge, England. Her husband also was working in his field under fellowship grants in both these cities.

At present Mrs. Blinks devotes much of her time to analyzing, reproducing and adapting ancient textiles to modern uses, modern yarns, or both. She raises sheep to procure the fleeces she wants and now has a flock of 15 sheep, comprising six breeds, on her Jack's Peak property. She continues to study materials used in ancient textiles; fibers, twists and dyes and spins her own yarns to reproduce fabrics working with ethnologists and museum directors.

Mrs. Blinks belongs to Gravenor Spinners, Loom and Shuttle Guild, San Francisco Women Artists, Designer-Weavers of Washington, D.C., and American Craftsmen Council.

Since turning her talents to reproducing ancient cloth, Mrs. Blinks only exhibits at the Monterey County Fair where she consistently wins blue ribbons. She remarks, "A Viking belt may be hard to do but it is not exhibit material." Previously she was awarded a best in show at an Oakland exhibition and also at a Monterey County Fair.

The Carmel Art Association announces that there will be an exhibition of members' work, oils or water colors, in the main room of the gallery, to be hung on Monday.

Though the work on the building is still unfinished, the main gallery will be available for the exhibition. Each artist will be limited to one painting, the overall

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

We have a new book entitled Release from Sexual Tensions by Dr. Mary Calderone and on the day this librarian was about to mention the book, came an article in a San Francisco newspaper. The inquiring reporter, or whatever he was called, asked eight people how they had learned the facts of life. Of the eight only one said he had learned what he knew from his parents. Most of the others learned from the older members of the gang they were going about with at the time or from books they borrowed from their public library.

The sad thing about all this is that books from the library should supplement rather than substitute for parental instruction. But books are being written these days which deal with this interesting subject with tact and kindness. So that if they must substitute, they will do so graciously. Let's talk about them briefly, and we can mention only a few, but remember that we have a good collection of them, all shelved at the desk, but in plain view, and you may browse through an armload of them until you find the one you need.

First, a book especially for girls written by Dr. Frank Richardson, the father of two daughters. It is the question and discussion type of thing, and is called For Girls Only. For boys, there is Attaining Manhood by George Corner. This is a straightforward presentation of sex facts for the growing youth.

There is a set of small books done by Marion Lerrigo and Helen Southard, which are graded according to the age of the inquiring child. The first is called Parents Privilege and tells what parents should tell children from ages three to eight. Then comes The Story About You which gives the simple facts of birth and growth for the child from 9 to 12. This is followed by What's Happening to Me? which contains a frank discussion of the physical, mental, and emotional changes in the boy and girl from 12 to 15. Next we have Learning About Love, which is for young people of both sexes from 16 to 20 years of age. And finally Sex Facts and Attitudes for adults who have any responsibility for the sex education of children. So much for the Lerrigo books.

A book written in the language of the teenager is The Stork Didn't Bring You by Lois Pemberton, containing straight from the shoulder information and advice. Sex and the Adolescent is by Dorothy Baruch, which starts from the premise that the sex education of children is an adult responsibility which starts with their birth and continues until they are adults. And beyond that we have marriage manuals, books on sex attitudes in the home, and maternity. And that just about closes the circle and brings us right back where we started, which is sex education for children. Which recalls an old saying that if your children never ask you questions about sex, one of two things is true. Either they are getting the information somewhere else, or they are feeble-minded. And on this happy thought, we say as usual... we have a lot of good books this week so consult the lists on the bulletin board.

OPERA WORKSHOP PERFORMANCE AT USO NOVEMBER 3

The Monterey Peninsula Opera Workshop, under the direction of Nancy Ness Bowman, will give its first public performance on November 3 at 8:15 o'clock in the Monterey USO. Excerpts from nine operas will be sung by Charlotte Boger, Ted Cross, Zeala Wright Broadus, Betty Jane Johnson, Dr. Lindley Mordecai and Margaret White. Wade Park will be the accompanist.

Friends To Hold Regional Meeting Here Saturday

The American Friends Service Committee will hold its annual Monterey Peninsula Regional Meeting in the Carmel Masonic Hall Saturday afternoon and evening.

Save a Child, a Dutch film, will be presented at 4:00 o'clock. It tells the story of 250,000 Algerian refugees, 85 percent of them women and children, who escaped the Algerian revolution by fleeing to Tunisia and Morocco. The American Friends Service Committee is the only American agency assisting these people.

Kent Wilson of Washington, D.C., and the University of California, at 5:00 o'clock will show slides and tell of his experience as one of 12 Americans participating with an equal number of Russians and citizens of 16 other countries in a Quaker-sponsored International Student Seminar in Leningrad last August. The ASFC will be host to a similar seminar in this country next summer.

Following a potluck dinner at 6:00 o'clock, Dr. Dorothy E. Hutchinson will speak at 7:30 o'clock. A writer and lecturer on international relations and religious subjects, she will discuss Quaker Contributions to Peace Making.

Milton Mayer of Carmel will be chairman of both the afternoon and evening sessions. The public is invited to the regional meeting at no charge.

Dowdells Tell Of Norman Show

A letter from Canon and Mrs. Charles A. Dowdell reports they attended the opening of Emile Norman's sculpture show at the New York Feingarten Gallery and encloses reviews of the Big Sur artist's work.

The New York Times art critic, Stuart Preston, writes of Emile Norman "an exceptional craftsman... (his) response to animal action or characteristics is a vital one. Such pieces of sculpture have the unreal reality of Meissen, Majolica or Chinese carving."

In the New York Herald Tribune, Carlyle Burrows states, "Emile Norman is one of the more remarkable sculptors exhibiting here, (his work) is suave, exquisite and precise. Norman's art commands respect... brilliantly invented as well as decorative."

The Dowdells jetted to Chicago, went "by propeller" to Rochester, automobile through the Finger Lake country to Watertown, then Kingston and finally New York.

They write, "The Mohawk Valley, the Catskills, the whole countryside was resplendent with autumn color. Church, music, art, friends make time fly. On November 2 we fly to Washington. Home on the tenth."

GOLDEN MOMENTS

In California history—as business boomed in 1900, society expressed prosperity with new ideas in gracious living.

In California life—today's ideal of gracious living includes beer, the beverage of moderation. Beer means enjoyment... prosperity. Last year, for example, brewers purchased over 40,000 tons of our farm products—another reason why beer means better living for all in the "Golden State."

IN THE NIGHT

What goes on when men are asleep,
Oblivious to all around?
Toad, snake and spider slither and creep,
Rat, hare and weasel scuttle or bound.

And there are rumors everywhere,
Among the whisperous leaves and grass,
Along the ghostly lanes of air,
Of things that only come to pass
When velvet quiet rules the world
And, with the morning's light, are furled.

And men toss strangely on their beds
As sprites and Titans of the dark
Throng fleetingly above their heads,
In an imponderable arc
That, lightly as the dew, is gone
When the grey streaks of autumn dawn.

GHOST HOUSE

Out on a quiet country road
Sometimes you see an old ghost house,
Once on a time a human abode,
But now abandoned to hare and mouse.
The windows stare like sightless eyes,
The roof is a perch for crow and rook,
And, scourged by forces from the skies,
It has a beaten, woebegone look.
The porch sags down, the steps are gone,
And the yard is a riot of weeds and grass,
Where, in the grey of dusk or dawn,
The shadowy deer and sly fox pass.
You pity the house, because at noon
It mutely grieves, bereft of a host,
But under the wan light of the moon
You see him, a multiple peering ghost.

THROUGH A HEDGE

I looked up to see, through a nearby hedge,
The face of a withered, grey-haired crone;
I looked back along time's misty ledge,
And a thousand similarly shone.

There were the evil eyes of witches,
Muttering charms, presaging harms,
Peering through leaves that bordered ditches,

Women like ancient, wrinkled moons,
Spying, through shrubbery, on a neighbor
Washing her clothes, counting her spoons,
And guessing when she would be in labor,

And hags, half hidden by privet and box,
Whispering slyly, one with another,
About such things, that had crept through locks,
As straying mates or an unwed mother;
Till a town might be traversed by scandal,
Leaping from hedge to hedge, in a sandal
That, light as a feather and sheer as foam,
Could trample a human, shatter a home.

Music On The Peninsula

By RICHARD TURNER

On Tuesday evening the Monterey County Symphony presented its Peninsula season's first concert before a sell-out audience in Sunset School Auditorium, Ronald Ondrejka, new resident conductor and music director, led the tightly disciplined group through an interesting and varied program that ranged from Offenbach's light Orpheus in the Underworld Overture to the epic Symphony No. 4 by Anton Bruckner. In the Offenbach, and in music from Gounod's Faust, the orchestra was joined by the evening's unique solo group, Daniel Llords' Puppets "International", in a performance involving what Mr. Llords very aptly called "untraditional collaboration."

Alone, and without any help but what his own hands, feet, and body can afford, Mr. Llords operates his puppets and manages the stage. But this manpower restriction in no way limits the scope of his productions. Several solo puppets and a chorus line may all appear on the stage at the same time. While the acting goes on, curtains open and close, lighting effects change, and stage props appear or disappear. The puppets themselves, which seem to be operated by means of a minimum number of strings, take on qualities of living flesh: their shoulders shrug, their hips wiggle, their potbellies shimmy. Brilliantly colored costumes and well designed scenery contribute to create an effect of extreme realism. In his concern for realism, however, Mr. Llords never loses sight of the dramatic implications of the music. At each change of mood or tempo in the Faust score, for instance, the proper new character—Marguerite, Mephistopheles, or an apparition—punctually appeared on stage to carry along the ballet story to its tragic conclusion.

For the close synchronization of the puppets and the music, great credit must also be given to the orchestra. Though projecting the dance rhythms incisively, the orchestra, under Mr. Ondrejka, modestly subordinated itself to the requirements of the ballet performance. An example of the high degree of cooperation between the two performing groups occurred during the Orpheus ballet. While on stage a strolling puppet violinist appeared to serenade a diner at a Parisian sidewalk cafe, the actual sound of the exquisitely played waltz strain came from the behind-the-scenes violin of John Erickson, concertmaster.

The high level of performance shown by the orchestra in the ballet pieces was consistent throughout the concert, and could be more easily observed in the first half of the evening's program, before Mr. Llords appeared on the scene to divide the glory. Henry Cowell's folksy Hymn and Fuguing Tune No. 3 opened the program. Its use of contrasting masses of strings and winds forced those sections of the orchestra to stand alone and be judged as separate units. From such a test they emerged triumphantly as ensembles of completely professional competence, capping the improvement which has gone on for several years. While the Cowell piece demonstrated the ability of the new orchestra, the symphony afforded a sample of the extraordinary musical merit of the new conductor. Using a clean and clear conducting technique, Mr. Ondrejka seemed to wring the maximum effect from each passage in a work that calls for the most careful handling. His interpretation was characterized by elegant phrasing, constant but tasteful dynamic changes, and a just concern for observing the major structural features. In presenting this symphony, however, Mr. Ondrejka did more than provide a demonstration of his musicianship; at the same time he proved for many in the audience that Bruckner is a composer of the greatest power, a fact that is not easy to discover, since his music is so seldom performed. From the mysterious opening characterized by the soft horn call so beautifully played by Fred Bergstone, principal hornist, to the heroic fanfares of the last movement, Bruckner offered in this work a musical feast of changing sound and emotion.

The high standard of performance of the orchestra and its conductor in the opening concert promises a season of the finest symphonic music for our area.

Marjorie Hannay

Marjorie Hannay was found, apparently drowned, in the swimming pool at Slate's Hot Springs, south of Big Sur, on Monday afternoon. Following an autopsy, County Coroner Christopher Hill Jr. stated Tuesday that drowning was the cause of death.

She had accompanied Pat Ryan, a cook at the resort, to Slate's

They arrived about 3:30 o'clock. Miss Hannay apparently went swimming while Ryan worked. Later a waitress, Mary Patterson, saw Miss Hannay on the bottom of the pool. Another employee, James Cleeton, pulled her out and administered artificial respiration unsuccessfully for about an hour.

Marjorie Hannay was born in Washington, D.C., on July 10, 1910. She served as WAC during World War II. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Young Hannay, with whom she lived on Dolores Street between Eighth and Ninth Avenues; a son, Julius Kahn

III of Berkeley; and two grandchildren.

Private funeral services were held yesterday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea with the Reverend David Hill, rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, officiating.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Comforting assurance of the final destruction of all sin will be given in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment" to be presented Sunday at Christian Science church services.

God's mercy will be emphasized in the scriptural selections from Psalms (130:7, 8): "Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption. And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities."

The following is one of the passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (265: 5): "Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual,—they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite,—in order that sin and mortality may be put off."

BILL BRYAN

says: "CALIFORNIA NEEDS TAX RELIEF!"

Gov. Brown has never given the people a reasonable accounting of why he handed California the largest single tax increase in the history of the state, and then, 12 months later, our treasury ended up with a bulging $131 million overtaxation surplus.

Proposals blocked by Senator Farr and Pat Brown:

1. A 10% across-the-board personal income tax reduction.
2. Exemption from sales tax of prescription drugs and other medical necessities prescribed by doctors such as eye glasses and artificial limbs.
3. Reduction of the minimum corporation franchise tax from $100 to $50.
4. Cigarette taxes and consumer taxes to be tax deductible.
5. Repeal cigarette tax entirely.

Arena Blanca Meeting

At last week's meeting, held at the home of Elsie Oberfohren, members of the Arena Blanca Chapter of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets began their bimonthly poetry contests with the subject of thankfulness. Entries, submitted anonymously, were read aloud by Olivia Young, president. The winning poems, to be chosen by Mrs. Young and Lois Wilson, contest judges for the year, will be announced November 16 when the group meets at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Wild.

Blanche Moke, program chairman, issued copies of the year's program booklet. Its theme is: "Words to live by, stressing change in outlook and viewpoint and the poet's share in revealing universal values by significant and sensitive poetic utterance."

Mrs. Young announced the sale of two poems by Eleanor Catron to Cats Magazine.

The evening's program featured recordings of poetry by Dylan Thomas and by a group of San Francisco poets.

Councilman Whitaker Reports

A postcard report from Councilman Francis Whitaker, vacationing in the Sierra, reports that Sonora-Monitor and Luther Passes were open Sunday. He went over them from Sonora to reach Lake Tahoe on his way to Feather River and Lassen Park.

"New snow on top and the aspens and cottonwoods were magnificent," he observed concerning weather and autumn coloring conditions.

Kenya Slides For Town House

The game preserves of Kenya in East Africa will highlight a program of slides which Mrs. Marcia DeVoe will show at the Carmel Foundation Town House on Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Mrs. DeVoe, a kindergarten teacher at River School, spent last year on sabbatical leave which included nine months of foreign travel, visiting the school systems of various countries. The slides on Kenya represent a portion of her month in Africa. In addition to the game preserves there will be pictures of native life and Mrs. DeVoe's observations of present conditions. All interested persons are invited.

Ted Kuster Eye-View Of Community Theatre's Forty Turbulent Years

The following is a transcript of a talk presented recently to the Book Section of the Carmel Woman's Club. No doubt there are other points of view and interpretations of the early-day theatrical rivalries in Carmel. This is Ted Kuster's own, which we are running serially in the Pine Cone. Views expressed by Mr. Kuster do not necessarily represent the opinions of the editor and publisher of this newspaper.

PART VI.

Barney Gould, a faddist for old melodrama, took over the place in San Francisco. We changed the name, of course. I don't know how he made out with the union. Perhaps the place is still being picketed.

I put in two interesting seasons of teaching and directing in Hollywood. This was in 1938 and 1939. Dr. Reinhardt's health was failing but when he was well enough he would direct, through an interpreter, English-spoken versions of some of his old European triumphs. My own productions met with the most extravagant praise from the Los Angeles Times, somehow the only newspaper that reviewed them. But there was a catch—my name was never mentioned! Credit for the plays went to Dr. Reinhardt. Finally I went to Mrs. Von Blon, the Times drama editor and explained to her that since the good doctor never came near my productions until opening night it was not fair to ignore me in the reviews, especially since I had only taken the job to improve my professional standing. She said that unfortunately she had orders to mention no-one but Dr. Reinhardt. "Orders? How come?" I asked. "Why, don't you know that Mr. Chandler is the sponsor who has underwritten the Workshop?" Harry Chandler was the managing editor and principal owner of the Times.

I went on for a while, finishing with Chodorov's Kind Lady. Then I came back to Carmel. You may be interested to know that Robert Ryan was one of my personal students, also Nanette Fabres, now called Nanette Fabray. If money is an item with any of you—Nanette was drawing $5,000 a week in TV a couple of years ago. She struck and left her program, demanding $6,000 a week. And she's getting it! An example of the fantastic character of the entertainment industry.

On returning to Carmel early in 1940 I took over the Filmarte and renamed it Golden Bough Playhouse. For nine popular and profitable years I operated it as a combination house, producing stage plays on Monday nights and showing quality motion pictures the rest of the week. Each stage production ran six consecutive Mondays. The actors liked this arrangement, and so did the public. The week's lay-off between performances practically ensured full attendance every Monday. Guest directors at that time were Lloyd Weer, Dan Totheroh, Lee Crowe.

All went merrily until April, 1949, when some being from the lower regions prompted Lloyd Weer to suggest that we repeat By Candlelight. Lloyd was Carmel's best actor for years, and is still tops, though he insists that he has retired. He had been leading man in By Candlelight when the original Golden Bough burned down in 1935. His idea was that we were all getting older and pretty soon wouldn't fit the roles we had played before. Well, we got the gang together — there were only seven in the cast—and we started rehearsals. For a reason I cannot now recall Ruth Warshawsky replaced Barbara Collins

City Of Monterey Sponsors Entrance Structure Contest

The City of Monterey is sponsoring a contest for a proper design for an entrance structure, set in a park-like setting, to welcome visitors to the city. Theme of the structure will be Monterey, the Doorway to History. A first prize of $50, second prize $25, third $15, fourth $10, will be awarded.

Entries should include an artist's rendering of the structure; a list of types of materials; dimensions. They should be submitted to the City Manager's office, City Hall, Monterey, by January 16.

Weather resistant materials such as adobe brick and wrought iron, for example, will be preferred. The structure must contain permanent lettering stating WELCOME TO MONTEREY, an arrangement for temporary letters indicating special events such as the Sports Car Races and Jazz Festival. The structure should be decorative as well as functional.

MICHAEL O'SHEA ARRESTED

Carmel police picked up Michael O'Shea, 19, on Tuesday afternoon on a charge of passing a check with a forged endorsement. He was arraigned in Monterey Municipal Court yesterday. Bail was set at $1,050. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Monday morning, 9:30 o'clock.

Norberg, and the role played by Jehanne Monteagle, now Mrs. Galatin Powers, was taken on by Mrs. von Urban. There was quite a hullabaloo in town. Dozens of people told us, sometimes jocularly, sometimes seriously, that we were tempting Fate, Providence and what-have-you to dare to put the play on again, but we laughed off all the Gloomy Gus warnings. My son Colin, then 18, reminded me of the melancholy fact that Carmel had become a haven for all sorts of eccentrics and crackpots and that it would be easy for one of them to get the idea that it would be highly dramatic and amusing if the warnings came true. He reminded me of the joy of the firebug in seeing the engines come down the street and the crowds gather, etcetera. He asked me to hire a special watchman for the theatre for a couple of weeks. Well, I put my young son in his place all right. We went right on and we performed the play before a delighted audience on Monday night, May 17, 1949.

Doris Birkland, Photographer, Works In Ceramics

tossed handfuls of salt into the kiln at intervals during the firing.

A long-time intensive explorer of the local area, Doris discovered a local deposit of clay she calls "Monterey clay" and during exploration farther afield, found some volcanic ash on a visit to a mountain peak on the Island of Oahu which she has labeled "Mount Tantalus" glaze.

In weaving, the search for texture has led her to experimental spinning and dyeing, using Navajo sheeps' wool and vegetable dyes of her own devising. A clever improviser, she has snared a pair of old Cannery Row fishing poles out of a defunct seiner from which she is constructing an upright loom.

Table-tops and dioramic plaques are achieved with a three-dimensional textural interplay, starting with an oil painted background and overlaid with pebbles, ceramic slabs and wood forms.

A combination of pebbles and ceramics has resulted in what Doris calls her "earth-inspired" jewelry. "Not many ceramists bother with this sort of thing because the pebbles often explode in the kiln," Doris says. "I experimented until I discovered the remedy."

Other samples of Doris' jewelry combine silver with African paduak wood inlay, or wood with silver interlacing threads, or copper and silver enameled pieces. This she produces in another Birkland improvisation, an old oven detached from a cooking stove, lined with firebrick, and outfitted with a pyrometer.

Her ceramics and weaving have been displayed in spots far and near, earning her a reputation enviable to any craftsman. She was invited American artist at the 6th and 7th International Exhibitions of Ceramic Art at the Smithsonian Institute, an exhibitor at the California Handweavers' Association in Sacramento and Monterey and at the Louisiana Art Commission Gallery, as well as many-time exhibitor and winner at the Santa Clara and Monterey County fairs.

She has also shown at the 9th Annual Designer-Craftsman Exhibition at Richmond Art Center, at the California Council convention of the American Institute of Architects here in 1958, and at the Carmel public library.

(The back wall of her shop holds a mammoth clutch of blue ribbons from these activities and others.)

A holder of various offices in the Carmel Crafts Guild since 1958, she was director until recently of the Craft Center at the Monterey Presidio, and lives at her Carmel apartment with her dog Braque, himself a prize-winner of sorts. Braque posed for a photo which recently won the Photographic Society of America contest of the Palo Alto Camera Club.

Doris is now a member of the Padre Trails Camera Club. In 1955, she organized the First International Photo Exhibition in Berlin for the Allied forces there, including the German Labor Service units. And the year prior to that she attended the Berlin Four-Power Conference as a press-photographer. At the time she was also a photo contributor to the Berlin Observer. One of her photos, "Market Place", is on permanent exhibit in Sukiyuma, Libya.

Her academic background is equally varied. With a BA from Louisiana State University, she has done graduate work at the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland, Mills College, Stanford University, the Academy for Art in Munich, the Berlin Hochschule fur bildende Kunst and the Berlin Meisterschule fur das Kunsthandwerk.

And for relaxation? Doris' idea of an outdoor sport is sandcasting on the beach. Using plaster of Paris and a magnesite mixture along with a heavy wooden frame, she "immortalizes" in a cast whatever parts of the local beach can be contained within the frame. She watches for unusual effects in the sand, sometimes rearranging items for better composition.

Best time for sandcasting, she says, is right after a rain, before the wind or tide alters the perfection of the moment.

Her enthusiasm for people as well as her work has led her into another side project of sizeable proportions. She's building up a photo gallery of local craftsmen in action. So far she has made camera portraits of fellow ceramists, glassblowers, weavers, blacksmiths, jewelers, woodcarvers and others.

Open-handed with technical information like any really good photographer, she said not to forget to include the information that she uses a Rolleiflex camera for black and white. So here it is.

Editorial . . .

as chairman of the interior subcommittee, says Mr. Teague. "She just sits on that wilderness bill." He'll keep on trying to get it out of committee, and he'll certainly vote for it if and when it gets on the floor.

We'll vote to send Fred Farr back to the state senate. We disagree with him on everything but he's worked for billboard control and will continue to do so. He's willing to work hard on other conservation measures, especially to protect our local scenery. And it's very convenient to have a state senator who lives in town, whom you can call up and argue with.

Certainly send Alan G. Pattee back to the assembly, on his record, and he, too, is a stout conservationist.

As for the "measures," No on No. 1; the ill conceived water bond act, and No on 15, senate reapportionment.

Vaya con Dios.

planting on the east side of the development.

Commissioners also granted Mrs. Gladys Whitney a building permit to add a bedroom and bath to an existing residence licensed as a rooming house at the southeast corner of Torres and Third. The single family use of the premises would be maintained with the additional space, they decided.

Plans for the second Standard Oil service station at the northeast corner of Junipero and Fourth did not meet with commissioners' approval in three respects. They suggested that an excessive use of glass be reduced, an oversize in proportion to the building roof fascia be modified and the rear of the site be planted with more trees and shrubs. This matter was continued until the status of gas stations is clarified in the new zoning ordinance.

J. M. Scales was given a time extension for a two-apartment addition to property containing two apartments on the east side of Lincoln between Seventh and Eighth. Tom Tousey and Dale Hale were allowed a permit to construct a darkroom and storage addition to the Camera Shop.
